Celebrating the Beauty of Workwear

The Uniform Studio is a London based design studio producing bespoke uniforms for an international mix of clients. The studio is an industry leader in providing beautiful, contemporary and hardwearing garments to the Hospitality, Retail and Hotel industries. Total looks have been devised and delivered for clients such as the Soho House Group, W Hotels, Anya Hindmarch as well as the revamped Design Museum.

The Uniform Studio's Designer & Co-founder Lois Hill, after completing a science degree and a stint at The London College of Fashion, began her career working as a fashion stylist in London whilst interweaving the design and execution of theatre costumes and big budget productions in the Balearic Islands. Her sense of style, understanding and passion in the functionality of garments, inspired the launch of the Studio along with business partner Chris Meeten.

Chris grew up around the renowned East London tailors' cutting rooms. He then went on to work in the bespoke suit business gaining a broad knowledge of garment construction, pattern cutting and fabric types.

The unity of the partners, now nearly a decade ago, created the perfect balance of skills to form The Uniform Studio.

The studio offers a very personal and complete service to its customers. Lois and Chris feel that it's their responsibility to understand who their customers are and what they want to achieve through their uniforms and to then create the balance between the form and function of the garment.

"People are very image conscious and savvy these days so you need to be able to respond with versatility to your client's brief. Some are looking to simply update a look and feel they are 'on trend' whereas others want to make a statement. We need to ensure we come up with ideas that achieve this."

Online Shop

As a natural progression through demand, The Uniform Studio launched its ready to wear online shop in Spring 2016. The design studio has created a collection of garments that combine both utility and beauty. Inspired by years of creating and producing bespoke uniforms, the new e-commerce shop features aprons, waistcoats, shirts & dresses in hardwearing but beautiful fabrics such as Denim and Linen.
